

It's Right Here in Little Old New York.

This photograph was taken by Ray Haas from a third story window of an apartment facing the Hudson River, at Eighty-third Street and Riverside Drive. The boy and girl under the umbrella are standing on the summit of Bald Tom Rock, a popular trying place on moonlight nights. The photograph was made late in the afternoon, with the camera pointed toward the cloud-shaded sun.